

NORWAY

The University of Roehampton has one of the most diverse international student populations among its peers with representatives from over 140 countries around the world. Of the 10,000 total students, approximately 10% are identified as international. The University warmly welcomes a healthy cohort of Norwegian students each year with London being the most popular study destination in the UK for Norwegian students.

Programmes such as Journalism, Film and Photography offered by the Department of Media, Culture and Language are most popular among Norwegian students at Roehampton but Norway is represented by many other Departments such as the Business School and Department of Psychology.

TESTIMONIAL:

“Being at Roehampton, doing my course and getting to know the people that are now my friends has completed me and I have found my path. During my second year I have engaged in a lot of exciting things. I volunteer for Growhampton, an amazing sustainability project which focuses on growing organic food and encourages staff and students to live more sustainably. I have founded my own society focusing on rainforest and animal conservation, I write articles for Fresh magazine and I got a job as a Student Ambassador. I have also been elected as the Environment and Fairtrade Officer which I am so excited about.”

Celia Briseid, BSc Anthropology
